and senior management team, guests, and representatives from the industry sector.

Shaikh Hisham congratulated the graduates on this academic achievement which will contribute to providing more skilled Bahrainis in the labour market. He also thanked the logistics tutors for their role in contributing to developing education in the Kingdom.

It is worth mentioning that since 2012, the Polytechnic graduated 300 logistics students with diploma and international certificate from CILT.

Head of School of Maritime and Logistics at Bahrain Polytechnic Dr. John

Webb stated that planning, preparation and support are the key skills that the students must focus on when they embark on their career [in logistics]. He emphasised that when the Polytechnic students' graduate, they will be equipped with the knowledge and skills they need in the field of Logistics, Transport or Supply Chain Management.

Dr. Webb also noted that the Polytechnic students have now become members of CILT International, an institute with 33,000 members globally. He also added that after leaving the Polytechnic, they can upgrade their membership after 3 years to "Member", prior to grading their educational and practical experience.

Shaikh Hisham handed 74 students with the diploma in logistics and transport, and 18 students with the CILT international certificates. He thanked the Polytechnic's executive management, academic and administrative staff and industrial partners who have contributed to the development of the students' skills and providing them an opportunity to train in their companies.

BBBF introduced to BIAS 2016

Bahrain British Business Forum (BBBF) Chairman, Khalid Al Zayani welcomed Jayne Thomson, Protocol and Delegations Manager of Farnborough International, the keynote speaker to the BBBF's networking function held at the Crowne Plaza Convention Centre.

About 100 members and their guests were introduced to "the making of a must attend event in the global aerospace calendar". Taking place from January on 21-23, the Bahrain International Airshow (BIAS) is organised by the Ministry of Transportation and Telecommunications, Royal Bahraini Air Force and Farnborough International.

Thomson outlined the history that led to the establishment of the first

BIAS in 2010. She described the growing successes of each consecutive event, now in its fourth edition.

Tens of thousands of trade and public visitors are projected to visit the show this year. This year's show will see its strongest international presence to date, reflecting the event's growing standing in the global aviation event calendar.

She highlighted a number of adjacent events taking place before and during the airshow, beginning with the Manama Air Power Symposium (MAPS) on January 20. 'Air Transport in the 21st Century' Conference takes place on the second day of the show, followed by IATA's safety programme seminar on the third day. On the last two days, there is a Hosted Buyer Programme that enables suppliers to connect with several international companies.
